

PACK AND STACK GROCERIES

Now don't tell me you don't know where the groceries go, I don't believe it for a second. I bet I could blind fold you and you'd find a packet of cookies in the cupboard faster than Big Roland would find a garbage can. So this next life lesson is all about being part of the team and getting those groceries put away.

With your parents direction, and perhaps a little help unpack and put away the groceries on three separate occasions.

* First and foremost, we always get the frozen stuff into the freezer, we don't want that stuff defrosting. Now I'll bet everything has a special place or area in the freezer, so make sure you get direction, and don't just throw things in there. Also, the neater we put things away, the more room we will have and the less chance we have of an avalanche when we open that door, that's never a good thing.

* Next, are those items that go in the fridge. The fridge is full of special compartments, crispers, drawer's nooks, crannies, so you'll need some direction as to the correct special place for some of those items.

* And finally, everything else. Cans into the cupboards or pantry, cleaning supplies put away safely, that's very important.

And that's the way it's done. If we take the time to put things away right, they will be where we can find them when we need them, fresh, and ready to eat.
